INTRODUCTION

THE PRESENT LIST of study aids for critical languages is based on a file of materials collected at the Center for Applied Linguistics over the past few years in order to handle numerous inquiries about the availability of instructional materials for modern foreign languages not commonly taught in the United States. Under this definition, the following languages are excluded from the list: French, German, Italian, Russian, and Spanish; materials for these languages are covered in other studies, especially the MLA Selective List, cited in the General section of this volume.

The emphasis of the present list is on materials intended for use by the adult learner whose native language is English. Because of this emphasis, certain materials of interest mainly to teachers, e.g. some older books, certain technical studies, have been excluded. Most of the items listed here are believed to be readily available in adequate quantities, though also included are some titles known to be forthcoming.

Following a brief general section, the 275 entries, representing 80 languages, are arranged alphabetically by language: Afrikaans-Vietnamese. The only exceptions are the languages of Sub-Saharan Africa, brought together under African Languages, and Hindi and Urdu, brought together under Hindi-Urdu. Beside each entry is a designator, indicating the primary category of the material:

PRON	Pronunciation
PED	Pedagogical, e.g. introductory text
GRAM	Grammar
RDR	Reader
DICT	Dictionary or vocabulary list
ORTH	Treatment of the writing system

Accompanying tapes and records are listed where known. Annotations are brief and few, e.g. [Hanoi dialect], [Introduces Nepali script], and for some languages, e.g. Arabic, Hindi-Urdu, a brief headnote sets forth pertinent linguistic or sociolinguistic information.

Sufficient bibliographical information is given for adequate identification of each title. Publishers and distributors are listed with their addresses in a special section at the end of the book.

Inclusion in the list does not necessarily constitute a recommendation of the item. The kind of materials suitable to a particular student will depend on his aims, interests, stage of advancement, etc. Each student is therefore advised to examine any particular item to determine its suitability for his purposes before adopting it for his personal use.

In the preparation of this volume I have enjoyed the generous assistance of my colleagues in the Publications Section. Particular thanks are due to Margaret Thomas and Lorna Peck for editorial and bibliographical assistance. I am especially grateful to Freda Ahearn for typing the manuscript for publication.
